Re: Reference for Bristolite Skylights

To Whom it May Concern:

At Bigham Taylor Roofing Corp., we have been using Bristolite Skylights for the past 30 years to provide us with thousands of skylights for our commercial roofing projects in Northern California and Northern Nevada. The company has consistently put out the highest quality products in the industry during that time. We have tried other manufacturers, but no one has produced the same level of quality products day after day, year after year, that we have seen from Bristolite. In addition, the customer service that we have received over the years has been excellent. Our area manager, John Bognacki, is always available to assist us with our pricing, delivery, and service needs. John is extremely knowledgeable about not only their products, but also the codes that their products meet and how different products will work to help suit a particular project. We feel fortunate to be able to work with such a professional on a daily basis. We view our product providers as part of our complete project team, and we use Bristolite whenever possible because they deliver the highest quality products, service, and professionalism in the industry on a consistent basis.

We are pleased to offer Bristolite our recommendation, and hope that others are able to experience the great products and service that we have been accustomed to over the past 30 years.

Sincerely,

Steve Galli
